Why Not Let Them Dance?
Politics, McAdoo, Bryan, Etc.
Discovering the Vitamin
Three Kinds of Wealth
Current Events
By Arthur Brisbane

D. GUTHRIE, rector of St. Mark's, fine Episcopal Church in New York, believes in dancing as part of religious service. Bishop Manning, his superior, forbids dancing in that church service. Nevertheless, Dr. Guthrie will have the dancing. A mere layman is bound to assume that the bishop knows best.

THE STUDENT observes with interest that Dr. Guthrie has on his side such scientists as Spencer, Darwin, Haeckel and Huxley. All of them agree that dancing and religion were closely united in the beginning. All savages express religious emotion in dancing—some of it violent. Even animals, in the jungle and the captive balloon in his cage, express their emotions in a sort of dance.

THE BIBLE tells us that David danced before the Ark, evidently convinced that he was pleasing the Ruler of Heaven. You have noticed that little children dance comically when they are angry. The fact is that our bodies and muscles are well developed, our minds poorly developed. So, in joy or rage, way of religion, when articulate thought fails us, we are very apt to "say it with dancing."

HOW WOULD it be, since human beings are different, and their conceptions of what please divine power even more different, to let those dance that want to dance, pray that want to pray, and sing that want to sing. Omnipotence alone knows what they all mean and can sort out the good intentions.

MR. McADOO leads Underwood in the Georgia primaries at least 5 to 1—a landslide. One thing may be said positively: Mr. McAdoo still holds all of his strength with regular labor, and especially with railroad men. They don't care anything about Doherty and the Teapot Duns. They are for McAdoo. And if he should be nominated there would be many a vote, ordinarily Republican, cast for him.

NEWSPAPERS talk of W. J. Bryan as a Democratic candidate. But Mr. Bryan isn't taking the talk too seriously. He would run if nominated, but would anybody else. But he tells you quite frankly that "he knows how many enemies he has made in many conventions, and how many powerful men there are that would prefer any other candidate."

MR. BRYAN, however, expects to be a fighting unit in the Democratic convention, and he ought to be there. Florida should be permitted to send a representative for his honesty and ability all over this country by those who agree and those who do not agree with his view.

THE MOST mysterious and important thing in human health and diet is the vitamin. When it is lacking, you die, no matter how much "food" you may eat. Feed a rat on food which contains no vitamins and the rat dies of starvation. Feed another rat on butter, containing many vitamins, it lives, gets fat and multiplies. Many kinds of vitamins are known to science, producing different, necessary effects, but until now, all that science knew of the and Mannington away in Europe where he cannot be reached. "I have demanded that Secretary Hughes be asked to furnish the official application for Mannington's passport and that he be caused to be returned."

LIE IS PASSED

"Then I demand you produce Howard Mannington," returned Senator Ashurst. "Don't worry, Mannington will be here if we want him."

Howard said he would endeavor to produce Mannington. "We will bring him here if we can," Howard explained, "and we want no implication that we are suppressing evidence."

The committee was suppressing evidence favorable to Mannington, said Howard, who had been "uttered a lie."

DOLLAR A CASE

"No liquor at all," he replied. "That was for the bootleggers."

The fee of $1 a case was for the use of drug companies, he said, to get the permits into hands of bootleggers.

"I collected for him from another party—it was in fifty $100 bills," Howard said. "I told me to go home."

BALKED BY HAYNES

"They said he could help a lot," Howard Mannington, Orr said, "getting a case from every case that went through."

Groni testified that Prohibition Director Haynes had refused a withdrawal permit for $15 a case and he understood Haynes' plan.

"How much of this $200,000 was for liquor?" Groni was asked.

"I would not be indicted," Groni said. "I asked for my money back when I was indicted."

LOST $30,000

Then Feltzer threw him out of his office, Groni said, because he refused to accept the $45,000 to reimburse his claims to the 7,100 cases of whiskey.

$200,000 IN ALL

"When was it?" "From May to about August, 1921," Groni said.

"Hold Vanderlip Here," Is Daugherty's Demand

Washington, March 21 (I.N.S.).—The Daugherty investigation started off in a blaze of fireworks today when counsel for Attorney General Daugherty demanded at the outset of the hearing that the investigating committee issue a subpoena for Frank A. Vanderlip, New York financier, and "hold him here" until they have had an opportunity to examine him on the witness stand.

F. A. Vanderlip stand.

He told me to go to hell. This was in June, 1921.

"Did you know that the goods were never shipped outside the port of New York?"

"I know the rumor," Groni said.

"There was a plan to steal it from the warehouse—and I got detectives to watch it. Then it was ordered removed to the concentration warehouse, where the bootleggers have everything in their power and I couldn't stop it."

"I changed my attorney—went from Feltzer to Burrows," Groni said.

SINCLAIR BALKS AS OIL PROBE WITNESS

Counsel in Bitter Clash With Committee to Save Client From Retaking Stand

Washington, March 21.—Counsel for Harry F. Sinclair balked today in an effort to have their client cleared from further questioning.

Challenging the committee's authority to proceed with the inquiry after the validity of the evidence already had been passed upon in a resolution of Congress, and contending that in "fairness and justice" Sinclair should not be compelled to testify.

His attorney told him, the witness said that Gaston B. Means would be called from Washington to New York, pending for the Attorney General and stop return of the whiskey to Rockland, Means got there on Monday, but the whiskey moved out on Saturday.

There was a plan to "take the whiskey out with army trucks and replace it with bootleg," Groni said, and when the liquor was put aboard an outbound ship he was told that it appeared as if empty cases were being loaded aboard.

Wheeler got Groni in identity Nick Cimino as "a friend of Orr's" in New York. There were other liquor shipments to the Anchor Warehouse, Groni said.

CROWD HISSES

"Any dope?"

"Not that I know of."

Attorney Howard for the Attorney General took up the examination.

"I have no information as to who actually became of it," he said.

"The same kind of whiskey, in bootleggers around New York," he was not positive the bootleggers' whiskey was his own, but "it was the same brand and that kind had never been there before."

"What did you lose?"

"Between $10,000 and $25,000—liquor and all."

"The $100,000 was sent to the Alpa Drug Company, Groni explained, and he had a permit to export it.

FOILED PLOT

"I did not pay anything for that permit—it was a legitimate transaction," Groni said.

"Orr came to me," Groni went on. "It wouldn't give up the ship."

'Dead' a Half Hour, Girl is Revived by Surgeons

Sanbury, Pa., March 21.—Revived after her heart ceased to beat and respiration had ceased for a half hour, Miss Mary Maxwell, 16, twenty of Kutztown, Pa., was taken to a fair way to recovery at the Shamokin State Hospital, Dr. George W. Kress, chief surgeon.

The girl was undergoing an operation for gall when she apparently died. Dr. Kress made an incision in her breast and with his hands managed her heart. He also applied artificial respiration.

The further examination of the girl in this matter.

"What is your committee is investigating that entitles you to take my client, who has been here time and again with his books and papers, and say 'You must testify further'?"

"I have any objection which entitles you to do so under the standards and precedents of the American government?"

"If your dues should prevail," said Senator Dill, "the committee must as well close its doors."

"It should either quit or do its duty in a constitutional fashion," retorted Lili: con.

"As I understand Mr. Litten's position," said Senator Walsh, "it is that members of Congress are obliged for the purpose of informing themselves concerning controversial legislation to descend upon the press, their talks with individuals and other voluntary information which they may be willing to give them, but they cannot compel anybody to come before a committee and tell it the facts."

"Senator, your statement is factious," Litten returned. "It is a statement of your argument."

COOLIGES ARE GUESTS OF NEW

Washington, March 21.—President and Mrs. Coolidge were guests of honor at the first cabinet dinner since the official period of mourning, given by the Postmaster General and Mrs. New at their home on Wyoming avenue. The dinner was originally planned for February 14.

By special request the company asked to meet the President and first lady was a small one—only ten in number. Besides the hosts the company included their house guest, Mrs. Ralph Lenoir, an old friend from Indianapolis, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lenoir, Will Irvin, the well-known writer, all of Indianapolis, and William Fortune, president of the Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce.

Tennis at Chestnut Hill Is Drawing Many of Smart Set, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN

ENTHUSIASTIC galleries have been watching the players at the national indoor tournament at Chestnut Hill way.

The matched display have been begun with William Tilden and Mrs. George W. Wightman as "head-liners." Tomorrow, of course, is the big day, and I hear that every seat has been taken.

Miss Isabella Mumford of Chestnut Hill is of the group watching their requests in the spirited matches at the Longwood covered courts.

Miss Mumford, who is petite and of slight build, is the vice-president of the Junior League. She is one of society's most ardent devotees of the get game and has played on many courts, both here and abroad.

She is a close friend of Miss Edith Sigourney, another well-known player, who is now traveling abroad with her mother, Mrs. Henry L. Sigourney.

A PROPOS of Chestnut Hill—a number of folk whose domiciles are out that way are sponsoring a concert taking place to-night at the Longwood Cricket Club. Artists for the occasion include some from the various musical clubs of Harvard, and the proceeds will help to swell the coffers of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children.

A few of the patronesses include Mesdames Franklin King, Thomas Latham, Charles A. Morse, George S. Mumford, Jr.

Others taking part in the O'Connell Blues, another feature number of "Wake Up."

Others taking part in the O'Connell Blues include the Misses Rosemond Adin, Eleanor Condit, Eleanor Musgrave, Grace Sargent and Miss Barton, as well as Mesdames Elsie S. Draper and David Sears and.

ONE of the daintiest tarpet-choreans numbers in "Wake Up," the coming Vincent Club show, will be the Debutante Dance—though, strangely enough, not a single bud of the past season is taking part in it.

Those who will point their toes in this number include petite Mary Hall, blonde-haired Laura Taylor, sprightly Mrs. Dudley Ransom who is also playing a prominent part in the cast; as well as Miss Nina Winslow, Grace Sargent, Mrs. Richard Dalton and Mrs. George T. Baldwin.

Miss Mary Gile, a deb of 23.4, who took part in the last play given by the Harvard Cricket Franchise, is of the group chosen for the O'Connell Blues, another feature number of "Wake Up."

REVOKE LICENSE OF

AGED OSTEOPATH

Providence, March 21.—The Rhode Island State Board of Health announced today that it had revoked the osteopathic license of Dr. Harry G. Syllacy, aged "diploma mill" graduate of Woonsocket. Dr. Syllacy was licensed by the State Board of Health April 9, 1922, when he presented a certificate purporting to have been signed by eight prominent Woonsocket physicians.
The board has now decided that these signatures were forgeries. Dr.
Syllacy has ten days in which to file an appeal.

3 INMATES FLEE HOUSE OF GOOD SHEPHERD

Girls Scale High Wall, but Are Caught by Policeman
in Auto

Three girls, inmates of the House of the Good Shepherd, Roxbury, reared the high wall surrounding the institution, dropped down to the ground on the outside and escaped.

The girls ran down Huntington avenue toward South Huntington avenue and the entrance to the Jamaicaway.

A policeman sent out in hunt for the fugitives commanded an automobile, overtook the girls and brought them back to the home.

STICK TO YOUR OVERCOATS; GALE DUE

Official Spring Brings Prophecy of Bad Weather; the West Has Blizzard

Just because Spring has officially arrived don't put the winter underwear and heavy coats in the cedar chest—or the heavy overcoat in the clothes closet.

A gale is sweeping up the Atlantic coast from the Virginia Cape. According to weather reports, it is due to arrive in southern New England late this afternoon or tonight-maybe.

All the storm warnings are out along the coast from Wilmington,
N. C., to Boston.

But this gale rising up the coast isn't all the bad news.

In the mid-West one of the severest blizzards of the winter is raging.

In Chicago the gale is accompanied by a heavy snowfall. In St. Louis the snowfall is so heavy that trolley lines, railroads and telephone and telegraph service have been disrupted.

Three separate storms are concentrating the snow from the Great Lakes to the Gulf, through the Rocky Mountain region, the Central valleys, the plains States and the lake area.

The one scant drop of comfort in the whole situation is that the approaching storm, up to date, have not been accompanied by any great drop in temperature.

The forecast of the Boston Weather Bureau predicts rain or possibly snow tonight and Saturday. High-west and northeast winds are predicted, but there will be little change in the temperature.

ANITA STEWART

HASNT NEW HUSBAND

Los Angeles, March 21.—Anita Stewart, film actress, today declared there was no truth in a story emanating from Coco, Fla., that she had married a Montezuma, Ala., man.

"The woman who used my name when she was married in Florida a few days ago is evidently trying to project herself in the spotlight on the strength of my professional reputation," said Miss Stewart.

URGES 2-YEAR TERM FOR LUDENDORFF

Moscow, March 21 (U.S.A.)—The presenter in the Ludendorff-Hitler high treason trial today urged the court to impose a two-year term of imprisonment upon General Erich Ludendorff, directing genius of the German armies in the great war.

A term of eight years' penal servitude was suggested for Adolf Hitler, founder of the Bavarian Fascist and now commander of the national revolutionary movement.

SAYS 100,000 CUBANS ARE READY TO REVOLT

New York, March 21.—Unaware that charges against him at present the revolution had been withdrawn in Havana on Tuesday while he was on the high seas, General Carlos Prats y Vique, Cuban Minister to Great Britain, asserted 100,000 armed Cubans were ready to overthrow their government if it did not reform.

General Vique arrived from Nassau, Bahamas, where for six months he had evaded police trying to serve Cuban warrants on him.

STRAUS OFF TO AMMAN TO CONCILIATE ARABS

Jerusalem, March 21 (United Telegraphic Agency)—Oscar S. Straus, former American Ambassador to Paris, who has been staying in Jerusalem as the guest of Sir Herbert Samuel, British High Commissioner, is on the way to Amman, Jordan, where he will visit King Hussein,
the newly proclaimed ruler.
It is believed the visit is in connection with Mr. Straus' efforts to bring about conciliation between the Arabs and the Jews in Palestine over recognition of the Balfour declaration establishing a Jewish homeland in Palestine.

FOUR AVENGERS FEARED BY DR. WILKINS

Confided in Mysterious Woman
as Caller Shortly Before
She Was Killed

Kansas City, March 20.—The fear of avenging death by four persons overshadowed the last hours of Dr. E. J. Wilkins, neurologist and love adventurer, whose mutilated body was found in his home here Tuesday night. It was learned, when police found a woman to whom Dr. Wilkins communicated her fears shortly before she was killed.

Dr. Wilkins connected the "four avengers" with a mysterious and lurid "drama" in Kansas City, which is pending the police.

"My life is threatened. Four people are going to get me," Dr. Wilkins is quoted as telling the woman, whose name is withheld.

This was on Friday, the woman returned to Dr. Wilkins' house Tuesday night.

"I have only a few hours left," Dr. Wilkins whispered. "If the dead don't go through, they will get me."

Dr. Wilkins' guest said that while she was at the house Friday, Dr. Wilkins told her that $40,000 worth of diamonds and some Liberty bonds were there.

Arthur Wilkins, brother of the murdered woman, said his sister had owned diamonds valued at between $30,000 and $40,000, and which she gave as collateral for a loan of between $10,000 and $15,000 made by James Orr of Colorado Springs.

SHEIK PRINCE WINS 'GIRL IN PINK TIGHTS'

Claudia Wheeler to Wed Ali Naba, Romantic Cousin of
of King of Egypt

New York, March 21.—Claudia Wheeler, divorced wife of Albert Gallatin Wheeler, financier, once known as "the girl in the pink tights," when she played in light opera with Frank Danahy, has been swept off her feet by romance for the second time.

Disregarding his finance as an adjunct to matrimony, she has become affianced to a learned Prince Ali Naba, a cousin of King Fuad of Egypt.

Claudia met her prince charming in London last July and immediately fell in love with his intellectual charm. He is as handsome as a motion picture actor and as learned as Dr. John Roach Straton, according to the description given by the society actress.

When Claudia went to Paris in 1918, she was followed by a motorcade of prisoners who were taken to the front lines.

ROUND-WORLD FLIERS RESTING AT SEATTLE

Completing Third Leg of Journey, Birdmen Converting Cruisers Into Seaplanes

Seattle, Wash., March 21.—The four round-the-world airmen will rest here several days at workmen at the Puget Sound aviation field convert the big air cruisers into seaplanes.

In preparation for the ordeal ahead, the young officers will abstain from public functions and entertainments, according to Major Frederick L. Martin, flight commander. The other aviators are Lieutenants Lowell H. Smith, Leigh H. Wade and Erik H. Nelson.

The airmen flew from Vancouver Barracks Thursday after the other three were up with by Lieutenant Nelson, whose start from Santa Monica, Cal., was delayed through late delivery of his ship.

After leaving Vancouver Barracks the squadron ran into great columns of clouds and was forced to climb higher, Major Martin said in describing the journey.

"The clouds lay in the bill tops and one never could tell whether he would crash into some hill that was a trifle higher than the rest," he said.

"We spiraled around in a little hole in the clouds and climbed to 15,000 feet. Even there, we found clouds before us and had to rise higher."

An interesting sidelight concerning good luck charms carried by members of the squadron was revealed by Major Martin. On the day the aviators started on their 25,000-mile serial jaunt, two stuffed cloth monkeys were presented to them.

"If, after the flight, the monkeys are safely delivered to their California owners, the aviators will be paid $50 each for the trophies," declared Major Martin. "The owners expect to raffie the pair, the money to be donated to charity."

QUEEN'S GODCHILD TO DANCE IN U. S.
 London, March 21. (Continued.)—Miss Elaine Hewlett, sixteen-year-old daughter of the master of King George's wardrobe, flying in St. James Palace, will for America early in May to dance in New York's biggest theatres.

Elaine is the godchild of Queen Mary and is a protégé of Anna Pavlova. She has danced before the King and Queen at Balmoral, King George's interceding with her father to allow her to adopt the stage for a career.

1,000 'FLU' DEATHS IN BRITAIN IN A WEEK
 London, March 21.—The influenza epidemic throughout the country is subsiding, though the deaths from the disease last week numbered near 1,000.

A war veteran who has undergone training under the direction of the United States Government is recommended for a position as clerk or cashier.

This veteran has had three and a half years' schooling at the Boston University College of Business Administration and has had several months' practical experience with a certified public accountant.

Before entering the service he was employed as a cashier in a railroad office.

If you can give employment to this veteran call Commerce 7600—Boston Chamber of Commerce and ask for Case No. 82.

EDWARDS SENDS BONUS REPLY TO GALLIVAN

In reply to a telegram from Congressman James A. Gallivan of Rhode Island, expressing the opinion that the "bonus" issue bill, as passed by the House, does not do justice to service men, Gen. Charles H. Edwards, war commander of the American Legion, sent a telegram to the Congress expressing great satisfaction with the bill.

"Speaking for myself, as a member of the Legion," he said, "I am glad to see the House of Representatives pass an adjusted compensation bill by the largest majority which it gives in all the times it has done so. I am also hopeful that long after the next war comes another bill will have been drafted by the government to draft the capital and the air, as well as the hand of the ship, when the emergency war is."

LUNCHCART MAN SHOT AS WOMEN EXAMINE GUN

Woburn Boarder Had Bought Weapon to Ward Off Bandits

Struck by the recent increase in the number of holdups and burglaries, Henry Porter, a boarder, Woburn, bought a new automatic pistol and carried it to his boarding house at No. 26 School street, to show it to his friends.

Mrs. Ellen Baker and Miss Ruth Corliss, the former the landlady, were in the house when Porter arrived with his new purchase.

"You be careful, Ruth," Mrs. Baker cautioned the younger woman, as Miss Corliss took the pistol in her hands to examine it and when Miss Corliss laughed, in reply Mrs. Baker reached for the weapon.

As she grasped the gun one of its cartridges was discharged and Porter fell to the floor, a bullet in his abdomen.

The lunch cart man was removed to Choate Memorial Hospital, Woburn.

What Bay Staters Are Saying

DR. ARTHUR W. GILBERT, State Commissioner of Agriculture, told 200 women at the Public Library: "It is absolutely folly to have such a thing as daylight saving, which injures the minority and only helps the majority in a recreational way. The minority, the farmers, are trying to raise food for us and the daylight saving interferes with them."

DAVID N. MESESSOHN, executive chairman of the Associated Dress Industries of America, said: "The three reasons for the high cost of madam's dressing are, inferior dyeing of piece goods, exorbitant demands of the unions and the frequent habit of the retailer in cancelling his orders with the manufacturer."

THOMAS E. DONNELLEY, chairman of the executive committee of the Citizens Committee to Reform the Landmark Award, told members of the Boston Chamber of Commerce: "An executive committee of 'Citizens' composed of four manufacturers, two bankers, one newspaper and one capitalist, has been organizing on not a battle but a war against the building trades unions of Chicago for more than two years and is not half through the job yet."

W. C. DAVIS of the United States Department of Agriculture, at the second educational meeting of the Most Council of Boston, said: "The body, as an organization, should take steps to rid the meat industry of unscrupulous dealers who adopt unfair methods to sell to the consumer low grade products under the guise of high grade meat."

DR. J. C. MASSEE, pastor of Tremont Temple, declared in a statement: "I have received numerous letters showing confessions of faith and conversions since the broadcasting of the services."

JOHN H. L. NOYES, street commissioner, declared at a meeting of the Board of Public Works:

LIUENTENANT-GOVERNOR ALVAN T. FILER, at graduation exercises of the Malden Evening school, said: "The primary essential to useful life is character, but you must also have intelligence, and this intelligence must be trained."

MELTON'S ANTI-BONUS PHRASE PROTESTED

Protest against the use of an anti-bonus statement credited to Secretary of the Treasury Mellon on the Liberty Digest tax vote ballot was made today in a letter sent to President Coolidge by John Findlay of Wakefield, in whose family are nineteen registered voters.

Findlay, father of John Findlay, Jr., sergeant-at-arms of Corporal Harry E. Nelson Post No. 63, American Legion of Wakefield, asks the President and the Republican party, in his letter, to work for the adjustment of compensation bill. The Wakefield man is a Republican.

According to Findlay, the Mellon anti-bonus statement on the Mellon plan tax ballot reads: "Secretary Mellon says his plan cannot be carried out if the bonus to ex-servicemen is paid."

TRUCK JOY-RIDE ENDS IN DEATH OF ONE

Another Man Badly Hurt as Auto Is Wrecked on Albany Street

James J. Cawley, twenty-two, of No. 9 Lombard street, Dorchester, is dead, and Edward Donovan, twenty-one, of No. 2 West Cottage street, Dorchester, is in a critical condition, following what the police believe to have been a joy ride in the early hours of today.

Donovan's name is on the danger list at the City Hospital. A third man, Edward J. Doherty, twenty-two, of No. 1287 Dorchester Ave., was under arrest, charged with drunkenness, while the police are investigating.

Cawley died following the wreckage of an auto truck in Albany street early today. Donovan and Doherty were picked up later, while wandering in the vicinity, by the police, who believe a fourth man was in the alleged joy-riding party.

According to police version of the fatal accident, the truck, owned by Otto W. Kettell of No. 13 Kennard road, Everett, and kept in the Paint Shop garage, No. 143 Dorchester street, Dorchester, was speeding through Albany street.

Near the Randolph street playground, where there is a curve in the road, the driver lost control of the fast moving machine. The truck veered, crossed the street, crashed into an electric light pole, knocking it off its base, then ploughed through a fence of the Pullman Trust Company at No. 414 Albany street, and overturned.

Cawley was pinned beneath the twisted wreckage. He was taken to the City Hospital, only a few blocks away, where he died a short time later.

Kettell, owner of the death truck, told the police that the machine was taken from the Dorchester garage without his permission. The speedometer of the machine, which had broken, showed thirty miles an hour.

The woman was cut by flying glass and another suffered a head injury from shock when a Harvard Square trolley car collided with a Commonwealth Avenue-Lake Street car at the corner of Massachusetts and Commonwealth avenues, early today.

May Grey of Thorncliffe street, Cambridge, who was on the Harvard square car, was cut about the face and neck by the flying glass. She also suffered a slight laceration on her forehead.

John J. O'Connell, 27 Harvard street, Allston, suffered from shock. Both women were taken to their homes in taxicabs.

The cars were crowded at the time of the accident. The trolley company has not yet determined the cause of the accident.

The Harvard square car was driven by John J. McDonald of Upland road, Cambridge, who is Commonwealth avenue car driver in charge of Norman Jackson street car.

OF CAMBRIDGE DIES IN WEST

Leading Merchant of Central Square and Prominent in City Affairs

John H. Corcoran, for forty years one of the leading merchants in Central square, Cambridge, died suddenly in Del Monte, Cal., where he had gone with his wife and a party of friends for his health.

Mr. Corcoran left Cambridge on February 21 and sailed through the Panama Canal to California. He was 62 years old.

He was a son of Paul H. Corcoran, who died in 1880. His father was a prominent merchant in Cambridge. He was a member of the Board of Aldermen in 1885. He also served as president of the Cambridge Chamber of Commerce. He was a director of the Harvard Trust Company and a charter member of the Cambridge Club.

The widow and two sons, Paul H. and John H. Corcoran, survive. Mr. Corcoran was in his sixtieth year.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Chronic Coughs and Persistent Colds Lead to Serious Lung Trouble. You Can Stop Them Now With Creomulsion, an Emulsified Cod-liver Oil That Is Pleasant to Take.

Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with untold action. It soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ. Of all known drugs, creomulsion is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest health agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung trouble. Creomulsion contains in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membrane and stop the irritation and inflammation while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchitis, asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung disease, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga.

CREOMULSION

ST. ELIZABETH'S HOSPITAL'S RATED HIGH

Notable Staff and Splendid Equipment Is Free to Poor Patients

This is the twelfth year in a series of articles which we are presenting to this newspaper's investigation of medical quackery in Greater Boston.

If you are not acquainted with reputable physicians and wish to make sure of obtaining expert advice and the best of the service, you should go to the St. Elizabeth's Hospital.

The new St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Brighton, founded in 1912 by Cardinal O'Connell, is one of the finest institutions of its kind in this country. Prominent physicians and surgeons are numbered on its staff, and the conscientious quickness has no place there.

This hospital, when first founded by five Catholic women in 1845, in William street, Boston, treated women exclusively. In the new hospital, men, women and children of all creeds and races are treated.

St. Elizabeth's Hospital has, perhaps, the lowest ward rate in the city—$12 a week, including nursing, charges. Both in the ward and Out-Patient Department treatment is free if the patient cannot pay.

Private rooms are $25 a week, and semi-private, $15. It was stated at the hospital that the demand for private rooms could not be supplied and that a new building is being erected which will contain 52 private rooms.

It is expected that this building will be completed in about a year. It will be known as the Cardinal O'Connell Building, in honor of the trustee, because of the audience support given the institution by the public.

There are separate wards for men and women, large maternity wards, a large department for orthopedic cases, special clinics for eye, ear, nose, throat, dental, and skin diseases. The children of the Brooklyn public schools are brought on specially appointed days by the school nurse to a large pharmacy, ambulance service at all hours of day and night, and such food as its own operating rooms and suites, sterilizing room, recovery room, sterilizing room and editorial laboratory.

NURSING IN CHARGE.
The hospital is in charge of the Sisters of St. Francis, of which Sister M. Francis is Active Superior. Twenty-five of these nuns serve as nurses. They are all graduates, trained nurses of Massachusetts. There is also a corps of graduate nurses, not religious, and 100 students from the St. Elizabeth's Nurses' Training School on duty.

The children's hours in the outpatient department are:
Monday, Tuesday, every week, day at 10 a. m. Dietary, daily, except Saturday and Sunday, at 10 a. m. X-ray, throat and eye, Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 10 a. m. X-ray, Monday and Tuesday at 10 a. m. Orthopedic, Tuesday and Thursday at 10 a. m. Prenatal, Monday and Friday at 12 m. Baby clinic, Monday, Wednesday and Saturday at 10 a. m. Diseases of the heart and kidney, Thursday at 9 a. m.

To those who can pay, a fee of $5 per visit in 10 cents is added for each visit to the outpatient department. If they cannot pay this sum, they are given no extra treatment fee. Sister Francis stated that a great relief was due the help Dr. John H. Mattery, the hospital's first superintendent, for his untiring work and generosity. She also said that 3 per cent. of all out-patient and ward services last year were absolutely free.

Among the large hospital staff are Dr. Joseph P. Stetson, surgeon; Dr. Thomas L. Broderick, in charge of orthopedic department; Dr. Frederick L. Good, obstetrician; Dr. Paul P. Butler, gynecologist; Dr. Andrew P. Downing, director of laboratory of serum diagnosis; Dr. Herbert L. Johnson, anesthesiologist; Dr. Arthur L. Chute, chief of urological department.

Dr. John W. Lane, surgeon-in-chief.

Dr. Delbert Jackson, Charles Kieckhefer, Thomas J. Scanlon and Robert P. Taylor, women's diseases, and Dr. Arthur H. Croble and Edward J. O'Brien, genitourinary department. All of these doctors render service free as do others of the staff equally as efficient.

Theatregoers Delayed
Hundreds of theatregoers missed the opening curtains and Elizabeth's was more or less demoralized about an hour when a trolley broke on the In-bound track on Beacon street, near the Public Garden.

GIVES WARNING OF NEXT WAR'S HORRORS

Planes to Fly Over Cities Like Vultures, Says British General

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND
Berlin, March 21 (United Press).—In the next war airplanes will circle over cities like vultures. Declared the British General Hamilton in a letter to General von Seeboach, former German minister of war.

"Citizens have no conception of the effect of modern war," said a man who knows a little of the work for peace and good will between nations. If we are not on guard the civilization and human life will be visited with a catastrophe a hundred times worse than the Japanese earthquake.

These excerpts from a letter of the famous British general to the former German war minister were today made public by the British General Berthold von Deimling, entitled "What will the next war mean?"

In the article the horrors of poison gas, aerial bombs and other modern improvements, especially for the civilian population are vividly pictured.

How to Keep Well

By F. A. MURPHY

Boston Health Commissioner

RETURNED to the simplest terms the most important factors in health, which we can influence.

I believe that a salad should be eaten twice a day. This will insure the regular consumption of some raw fruit, raw cabbage, raw carrots, tomatoes, lettuce, etc., also.

These enter so frequently into the composition of salads. The consumption of such foods provides an abundance of the anti-scorbutic substance in which our diet of cooked foods is likely to be lacking.

Each day a liberal helping should be taken of some food which is a source of vitamin C. These possess a diuretic property which makes them useful in the treatment of the urinary tract, which is the cause of the common urinary diseases.

Each day a quart of milk or its equivalent in the form of manufactured dairy products should be taken.

If one lives up to these rules, there will mean that the diet will be well balanced and the body will be in good health.

HUB CHILDREN IN BEAUTY CONTEST

Prize Winners of Lever Bros. Competition to Have Portrait Painted

An unique portrait is to come from a group of famous New York children in the United States and their mother.

The mother and children have not yet been selected. Competent judges will do that from the photographs submitted in the nation-wide contest being conducted by Lever Brothers Company of Canandaigua, N. Y.

The mother and children selected as America's most beautiful will be awarded a cash prize of $2500 in addition, they will be taken to New York at the expense of Lever Brothers Company and the portrait will be painted. The portrait will become the permanent property of the mother.

Boston already has many children entered in the contest and it is hoped that the first prize, or at least the first of the fifty-five other prizes will be awarded Hub families.

The oil portrait of the first prize winner will have a value of a couple of dollars. It will be reproduced in newspapers and magazines throughout the country.

All that is necessary to enter the contest is to send photographs to the Lever Brothers Company in Canandaigua, N. Y.

The contest is open to all children under the age of 14 years and their mothers.

CHICKIE

Seething Life of a Lovely Boston Girl of This Strange Today

CHICKIE looked for a minute into the soft loveliness of this face—its eyes closed in such serene quiet. She switched out the light.

She sat on the bed, her arms wound about her knees. Her heart knocked. Presently she heard it breathing in the deep regularity of sleep.

She stole softly to the balcony. The breeze touched with cool, lifting fingers on her flaming face. She leaned against the railing, crushing them. She put out her hands, sending an ardent cry through the stillness: "Oh—I love you—"

She crept back to bed and lay there a long time motionless. Her heart beat fast against the pillow whispering, "What am I to do?" At 9 o'clock the house was still wrapped in the cloistered hush of the early morning. Chickie awoke to the sun dropping a golden ray across the bed. She opened her eyes slowly, the memory of the night coming over her with a thrill. She saw herself drawing his head down. Her thought flashed warmly.

She lay there wondering: why the earnest to the exquisite little ways that rose over her. Now then she said with a smile: "Love me! Oh—"

She sank deliciously into these memories as a warm, sparkling pool. Finally she jumped from bed, dressing with haste and surprise, laying at brief intervals to the dream.

She went out and stood on the balcony. On the terrace was Harry Dunn. He had his hat in his hand, his face as clear as the beautiful sea. He had been looking at her, his eyes fixed on her face.

At that moment it was forced to her that he had spoken; still more astonished that she had answered. Now she relaxed in the sudden release of her mind. As though he had been standing in a dark threshold, she found herself in the full sunlight. It poured on her soft, golden, like a rush of roses.

Suddenly he saw her—came over quickly. She turned down, laughing in her eyes. He said with his lips: "I love you!" She answered, smiling: "I know. Say something else."

Two Images These two images of him flashed into her mind—remained there indelible and unchangeable. Afterwards, when she thought of him, standing there like that, always—standing there like that.

His presence gave a touch of soft beauty to a day that would otherwise have aroused and troubled her—the soft coming to breakfast table in the flint of neglect, the shuffling stories tossed off gleefully. Marie the

Some of them have. That's no reason why she should be after a boy like Charlie. It's awful. For some strange reason his words and his look caught together with a stab of gladness. She murmured: "But if he should care for each other?"

He had his hand resting against her arm. He reached his hands to her.

How We Go to Sleep and Wake Up

Nature's Wisdom, and Proof of Our Original Primitive Condition

Copyright, 1924, Mrs. C.

Every twenty-four hours you go to sleep and wake up. Have you ever devoted thought to the sleeping and waking process?

Sleep is a condition of recuperation, and a condition of danger. The forces of the body—that protect us and guide us through our waking hours—all suspend their activities. And each of our vital centres stores up fresh energy for the work of the coming day. We are unprotected and at the mercy of enemies.

Observe how nature cautiously does what she can to protect us in this sleeping operation. And ask yourself if in going to sleep you do not bring back dimly the forest or cave life of your ancestors?

Your guardian senses do not leave you all at once. Each in turn assumes to sleep and gives up its watchfulness.

Of all things that protect us from danger, our eyes are most important. But sleep, normally, comes with darkness, when sight is useless, anyhow. Therefore, when we sleep we first of all close our eyes, cutting off sight, and confiding our welfare to the other senses. Next after sight, taste goes. As a man gets drowsy the nerves of taste follow the optic nerves into oblivion. Next the sense of smell goes to sleep. Smell is a protector, but a minor one, especially among us "higher primates."

When a man is "half-asleep" his sight is gone, taste and smell are dormant. Next hearing succumbs, and, last of all, the sense of touch.

The sense of touch, warning us of the closest possible approach of danger, stays awake and on guard to the very last.

Finally the little nerves lying at the surface of the skin, the nerves that tell when anything touches us, abandon their work; the nervous fluid is withdrawn to the central batteries, and we are fast asleep.

When you awake the same process occurs—reversed. The quickest way to awaken a man is to pinch him. The sense of touch acts most quickly. The next quickest way is to shout at him. Hearing wakes him up. The next is to awaken him by putting some strong odor near him; then comes the sense of taste as an awakener.

Perhaps you will ask the usual question:

"What of it?" We can only answer that it is good occasionally to point out to callous humanity the marvelous wisdom, in the smallest details, of the Providence or laws that guard us.

Our senses are our guardian, guides, protectors. And when we sleep, the most vigilant and important of them is last to go off duty and first to come on duty again.

By considering these little things you become interested in the big things of the universe; you learn to take interest in yourself—which is the beginning of philosophy—and you learn reverence for Divine wisdom, which is the end of philosophy.

To prove that small things are important, we shall quote to you a part of Socrates' talk on the wonderful human organism—Socrates' name is so solemn that you are compelled to treat it respectfully.

Xenophon, who relates the conversation, declares that he heard Socrates discoursing with Aristodemus, surnamed the Little—and very well surnamed, by the way, since he (Aristodemus) denied the existence of God.

Socrates, as proof of God's wisdom, points out various fine points about the human being and continues:

Is not that Providence, Aristodemus, in a most eminent manner conspicuous which, because the eye of man is so delicate in its texture, hath, therefore, prepared eyelids like doors, whereby to secure it, which extend of themselves whenever it is needful, and again close when sleep approaches? Are not these eyelids provided, as it were, with a fence on the edge of them, to keep off the wind and guard the eye? Even the eyelid itself is not without its office, but, as a pedagogue, is prepared to turn off the sweat, which falling from the forehead might enter and annoy that no less tender than astonishing part of us.

Socrates goes on to admire our ears, which "take in sounds of every sort, yet are not too much filled with them," and our teeth, the front ones for biting off, the rear ones for grinding, etc.

We have quoted enough from the wise old man to show that GREAT men observe LITTLE things, and that it is worth your while, Mr. Reader, to contemplate in detail the wisdom that guides you, sleeping or waking.

P. S.—Darwin says the eyebrows are mainly intended to shield the eyes from too bright sunlight, and invites us to notice that, like monkeys, we wrinkle our forehead and squint our eyebrows when bothered by the sun's rays. But Socrates and Darwin have probably talked that matter over together by this time, and, anyhow, it's too long a subject for discussion here.

If Poverty Should End Now

Progress Also Would End

Copyright, 1924, Mrs. C.

Ramsay MacDonald tells the Free Church Council of England that poverty must disappear. "Christians must feel uneasy as long as it exists."

The DEGRADING poverty of London's slums, the EENUNING poverty of underpaid rural workers in England, OUGHT to be ended, COULD be ended, and MacDonald, Labor's Premier, may do more than all of England's Tories put together to help end it. But there could be no greater calamity in the world than the abolition of poverty GENERALLY.

Men, on the average, work because they must. Poverty is the lash that brings out of men in general the best that is in them.

One man in a thousand, perhaps, works hard and makes himself worth while in spite of wealth. Five hundred in a thousand at least can conquer poverty. Any nation without poverty would be a nation practically without effort.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

SOMETHING strange is happening over in Germany. They call it the "Youth Movement." This Youth Movement manifests itself in many different ways, but its basic impulse is to "save Germany." This sounds like a political name, but the Youth Movement is not political. It strongly condemns all existing forms of politics. It would save life itself, free it from pomp and pretence, tyranny and hypocrisy, and bring the Golden Age to earth. In furtherance of these ideals, young people all over Germany have banded themselves together in clubs and are expressing themselves in various revolutionary ways. Some of these ways are harmless, some spectacular, some decidedly dangerous, but all are based on the same code.

In the Summer the young people, boys and girls, unite in nature clubs and roam the country, living on a few cents a day dressing in the simplest clothes, playing games as they go. The unconventionality of this life naturally at times increases to license. In a desire to be untrammelled by conventions, some of them go about almost naked. Certain groups have queer religious rites; others would abolish all religion and give the world over to paganism. They all unite in a demand for "The New Freedom." They revolt against the old order of things, against the tyranny in homes, schools, in the government and industrial orders. So strong has the movement become that in certain districts the children dictate what they shall study from day to day. Just where all this will lead it is hard to tell, but it is one of the most striking social phenomena in the world today.

There is something very beautiful and yet very sad about that German Youth Movement. There is also something of vital significance to Americans who read of it. FOR THE YOUTH MOVEMENT IS AS DEFINITE IN AMERICA TODAY AS IT IS IN GERMANY. Young Americans are not going about with guitars slung across their shoulders, nor parading the Lincoln Highway in B. V. D.'s. BUT AMERI-

CAN YOUTH IS AS FIERCELY ORGANIZED TO OVERTHROW THE OLD ORDER AS ANY ARMY OF YOUNG EUROPEANS. And unless the mature minds of America come to a better understanding of the origin, aim and scope of this rebellion things are apt to break badly for American progress.

Why does young Henry tote a hip flask—why does little Milly flout a cigarette and most of her shape—why do they both go on questionable escapades, defy all authority and raise Cain generally? For exactly the same reason that the German youngsters flee to the woods, bathe in the streams, together, and worship a clay statue of a pagan goddess by moonlight. BECAUSE THEY ARE BOTH IN REVOLT AGAINST DRABNESS, AGAINST THE FUTILITY OF LIFE, AGAINST THE NEGATION OF JOY.

They want to live colorfully, bravely, freely, and all about them they see a generation of complaining, befuddled, unhappy older people. "Be good!" say those older people. "Obey the law, sacrifice yourself for others, observe the conventions."

"What has it profited you to do these things?" ask the youngsters with indispensible logic.

So forthwith the German youth seizes Uncle Fritz's guitar and flees him to the greenwood. And the American youngsters seize Dad's six-cylinder and proceed to burn up the gas. That's the reason for it all. We'll never stop this American Youth Movement until we recognize that reason and begin to do our part in setting things right. If we want to stop the youngster's rebellion, we must start a rebellion of our own. If we want him to believe that there's more content, kindness, justice and profit in a respectable life than in a disorderly one WE MUST PROVE IT. We've whined and muddled long enough, and our whining and muddling has ended in the foulest war history has ever known. And now the youngsters have called our bluff. Well, what are we going to do?

DR. FRANK CRANE ON THE EDUCATIONAL SYSTEM

By DR. FRANK CRANE

UNDER Section 47 of the National Defence Act, as amended June 4, 1920, is the seed of the future educational system of the United States and of the world.

This section provides that the Secretary of War see to it that schools are established, throughout the country, in which army officers shall provide military training and teach citizenship to such boys as may care to attend.

Last year twenty thousand boys spent one month in such camps. There they learned such vital things as throwing their shoulders back and holding in the abdomen, getting up when the trumpet blows, eating what is set before them, exercising team play with their fellows and respect toward their superiors, toeing the mark, keeping step and similar things that were invaluable in the important task of not being a slob, but being a regular two-dusted He-American.

The only fault I can find with these schools is that, instead of twenty thousand boys being in them, twenty million boys should have been in them.

In fact it will be a God blessed day for this country when every boy in the land, whether he be the son of a banker or a section hand, shall be required to put on the uniform of Uncle Sam's army and go to school under army officials, outdoors somewhere, for at least one month of the year, every year, between the ages of seventeen and twenty-one.

I wonder if the people know that these camps are in existence this Summer, that they are maintained and paid for by the government, that any boy between the ages of seventeen and twenty-four may attend them, the government not only paying his expenses and furnishing him with uniform and grub, but also paying his fare from his home to the camp and return.

Think of that! A million boys ought to apply for admission to these camps this Summer. The only reason they have not applied before is because the advantage has not been sufficiently advertised.

These schools are not for the purpose of making soldiers out of boys. Boys do not there learn how to kill. They learn how to behave themselves, how to get strong bodies, alert minds, and how to become good citizens.

This news ought to be received with exultation by many a mother who is worried over what to do with her boy this Summer.

To have him get out among other boys of his own age, learn how to get along with his fellows, learn the road toward a healthy body and a better mind, learn what a wonderful master Uncle Sam is, and learn that there is something in this world inside his own pleasure; that there is a great country to serve, to live for and even die for, ought surely to appeal to every parent.

And incidentally the transformation of the army from a mere fighting machine for destruction into an organization for construction; into an organization for the building up of good citizenship, would be the most significant achievement of the century.

C. M. T. C. means Citizens' Military Training Camp. Get familiar with those letters.

Write now to the War Department, Washington, D. C., and find out how to join the camps. Write to your Congressman and ask him for full information. He will be glad to give it to you.

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON THE ASCENT OF MAN

By Garrett P. Serviss.

Famous Astronomer and Writer on Scientific "To-day" of Popular Interest.

About the most succinct and clearest summary that I have ever read of man's ascent from the lowest monkey ancestor contained in an address to the American Association for the Advancement of Science, by Professor Harvey W. Shimer of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. First he sketches the evidence from embryology, which is the science that deals with the development, growth, and heredity of living creatures. He follows that up with the evidence given by the chemistry of the blood, by the succession of the various forms in time, as proved by the fossil contents of the rocky strata of the globe; and finally by psychology, which shows the derivation of human impulses and instincts from ancestors reaching back to the earliest life on earth at the very beginning of earth history.

Embryological relationship to the simplest primitive animals is demonstrated by primary reactions of life of the higher animals, to plain water. Each embryo, in a minute, protozoan-like cell, which develops into the ground plan of a jellyfish or a worm, and this into an elongated form having a similar life to that of a worm. Thence the development proceeds through a similar relationship to lower vertebrates. In a very young human embryo the backbone resembles the backbone of an adult fish, later of such a primitive mammal as the marsupial, etc., etc., characteristic of higher mammals as the "limbs."

The lesson once we have learned the globe but now extinct except in Madagascar and a few tropical regions, are a primitive form of man on a yoke. The embryological evidence leads us to the point that it would seem one must be wildly blind not to perceive its significance.

Next let us take the testimony of this character of Mrs. C. G. blood. Says Professor Shimer,

The story then goes on to the descent of the herd instinct, leading all members of the herd to have the same fixed reactions to all ordinary happenings. And today, through impressions upon man, this inherited herd instinct makes one's conduct the basis of the majority, to be fearful of the "majority," to be "subject to the passions," to be "influenced by the crowd," to be "led by the mob," but here we must stop.
